Full of Tragic Meaning

are these lines from J. H. Simmons of Casey, Ia. Think what might have resulted from his terrible cough if he had not taken the medicine about which he writes: "I had a fearful cough that disturbed my night's rest. I tried everything, but nothing would relieve it until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which completely cured me." Instantly relieves and permanently cures all throat and lung diseases. Prevents grip and pneumonia. At the Red Cross Pharmacy and Parlor Drug Store. Guaranteed. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

A Poultry Food That Will Keep in Hot Weather.

Poultrymen who have had experience with inferior poultry foods will be interested in the following letter from L. M. Averill of Barre, Vt.: "We are much pleased with Page's Perfected Poultry Food as at present put up. We think you have made a great improvement in same since last season. It will not get wormy if kept over hot weather like some poultry foods and it certainly brings better results than formerly, when it was even then one of the most popular foods. Our sales have increased constantly on it from the time we first commenced to sell it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup seems especially adapted to the needs of the children. Pleasant to take; nothing in its influence. It is the remedy of all remedies for every form of throat and lung disease.

Ten thousand demons gnawing away at one's vitals couldn't be much worse than the tortures of itching piles. Yet there's a cure. Doan's Ointment never fails.

A MUD VOLCANO.

Extraordinary Scene on a Tropical Island.

Some time ago the natives of British North Borneo reported that a huge marine monster—a kind of octopus—had made its place of recreation on the island of Labuman, which lies some twenty miles north of Sandakan town. The monster was minutely described as to size, appearance, and habits, and was said to burrow deeply into the heart of the island and throw mud and water. It had also made a track from the sea to its hole.

Remembering the occurrence of a mud eruption on the island some years ago, the governor of the colony formed his own opinion regarding the existence of the supposed monster, and when an opportunity occurred made an examination of the island. It appeared from his investigation that the "track" made by the marine phenomenon was a river of hardened mud, sun-dried and cracked till it bore the appearance of a glacier of gray mud, complete with its crevasses and boulders, lacking only the moraines and the exhilarating glacier air to make the resemblance complete. At its lower end, where it debouched into the sea, a good quarter of a mile from its source, the mud-river was perhaps 150 feet broad, narrowing to eighty feet. At its highest point—100 feet above sea level—where it emerged from the crater, it appeared to have cut through the solid soil, which stood up on each side a good eight or ten feet above the surface of the mud, which was freely strewn with small blocks of gray sandstone. The edges of these blocks were, in many cases, as sharp as those of newly-broken road metal.

The crater itself, a depression about thirty to forty feet in diameter, was covered with a crust of mud just strong enough to bear the weight of a man, but giving slightly as one walked over it, thus indicating that it was merely a crust. In the very center was a small pool of liquid mud, into which a long stick was thrust without finding bottom. Around the crater rose the walls of mud, ten to fifteen feet high, with large blocks of sandstone and rocks bearing streaks of quartz perched in such positions as proved that they must have been hurled into the air by the force of the eruption, and dropped into their present positions. The island gave evidence of at least two eruptions, the latter of very recent occurrence, having spread a layer of lighter colored mud over part of the older stream. The latter outburst must, however, have been of comparatively mild nature, for the upper layer appears to be not more than a foot thick, and does not reach more than half way down the hill, while the old mud stands at the shore, where the sea has eaten into it, a wall some six feet high.—North Borneo Herald.

A reduction of fare and one-third on the certificate plan, has been secured for those attending the meeting of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 13-23.

HEART TO HEART TALKS.

A Few Words on a Fragrant Subject For Barre Men.

Smoke? Well, then, smoke a good cigar. Smoke a Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos, a straight 5c cigar that has more real pleasure and enjoyment beneath its rich brown wrapper than the average "ten center."

Leading business and professional men all over the country have a box of Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos right at hand to treat their friends and customers. They would not do this unless the cigar was just what it is—all long Havana filler, burning evenly with a long, white ash. C. H. Kendrick & Co. have the local agency for Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos, and say they never before had a cigar in their stock that gave such universal satisfaction. Try one and you will thank them for introducing it in Barre.

Endows Library for West Windsor.

By the will of Sidney Sanders, of Springfield, Mass., a wealthy bachelor and woman hater who died in Jamaica about eighteen months ago, a free library will eventually be established in West Windsor.

Miss Rena Kaser, a nurse of Hartford, Conn., has brought suit for $7,000 against the estate, claiming this is the amount due her for services in caring for Mr. Sanders for a long time before his death. Mr. Sanders had large holdings of real estate in Springfield, Mass., and provided that during the life of Mrs. Charlotte H. Fay and her daughter, Miss Louise Fay, of Chicopee, Mass., the income from the same should go to them. After their death, the estate is to be used to endow and support a free library in West Windsor. Mrs. Fay is a sister of the deceased. Another sister is Mrs. Ella Quimby, of Claremont, N. H.

Mr. Sanders was a lawyer and real estate operator. He was never married and made his law office his home. He was known as a woman hater, and attracted much attention at one time by declaring during a court trial that baby carriages were useless extravagance, and that a workman should be able to bring up a family on a dollar a day.
